A NEWSPAPER FOREMAN.—A very interesting meeting of all the attaches of the Philadelphia Press was held on Wednesday, to pay a tribute to the memory of Albert L. Tyson, deceased, late foreman of that journal. Amongst the appropriate remarks made on this occasion, we note the following by Captain W. W. Nevins:

"The position of foreman on a daily paper is one that can hardly be appreciated or understood outside of the active ranks of journalism.
It is an office second in responsibility and importance to no subordinate department in the whole complex establishment which is required to produce a daily newspaper, and its functions are by no means merely mechanical, as, perhaps, generally supposed by those unacquainted with the practical workings of a newspaper office. In charge of a paper to the critical moment of its final delivery to the press, the intelligent foreman must possess not only rare mechanical skill, but sound judgment, great delicacy in tact, readiness of decision, and the energy to execute with rapidity and precision his quickly formed conclusions. He must decide between this article and that; between news matter and correspondence, telegrams and editorials; weigh the relative weight, and importance, and life of each; and his decision is one that cannot be opened or reargued."

A WONDERFUL FLOWER.—One of the most exquisite wonders of the sea is the Opetlet, a flower resembling very much the German China Aster. It has the appearance of a large double aster, with a quantity of petals of a light green color, glossy as silk, each petal tipped with rose-color. These lovely petals are never still, but wave about in the water, while the flower clings to the rocks. So innocent and lovely-looking, no one could suspect it of eating anything, certainly it did, only a bit of rainbow or a drop of dew. But those beautiful waving petals have other and more material work to do to provide food for a large number which is cunningly hid deep down among them. They do their duty faithfully, for as soon as a silly little fish comes in contact with those rosy tips, he is struck with a poison fatal and quick as lightning. He dies instantly, and the beautiful arms wrap themselves about him and drag him into the greedy maw. Then those lovely petals unclosed, float innocently on the water, just like our own waterlily. This flower was long ago talked of, but its existence doubted, until the last century. Now the Opetlet is known to be a thing that really exists.

GEN. EARLY ON WEeping MEN.—The Hudson, New York, Gazette, under the heading "a reminiscence of the rebellion" gives a dialogue which occurred between a surgeon and General Early, near Staunton, during the Valley campaign of 1864: Surgeon:—"General, when I see a woman weep my sympathies are at once enlisted, but my grief is in a measure modulated by the knowledge that she can weep at any time; but sir, when I see a man shed tears—a man upon whom "all the gods have set a seal to give assurance of a man," it arouses every pathetic sensitivity of my emotional nature to an immediate communion with his grief, as I reflect what must be the volcanic turbulence of his bosom to inundate his visage with such a lava of tears." Gen. Early: "Well, Doctor, when I see such a man as you have described, with all the front of Jove, and all that sort of thing, cry, I always put him down for a d—n fool." Roars of laughter followed.

A CHAPLAIN.—We notice that the California legislators are particularly as to who prays for them, and there is wisdom in this prudence.
For instance, recently the Rev. W. T. Lucky, principal of the California State Normal School and chaplain of the San Quentin penitentiary, was on a visit to Sacramento, and being in the Senate chamber one morning at the opening of the session, he was requested to open the proceedings by prayer, and did so in the following manner:
"Oh, Lord, we pray Thee that Thy mercies may be extended to these poor men, who have been sent here from all parts of the State, convicted of various crimes and misdemeanors; who have merited upon them, we beseech Thee, while they are here serving out the times for which they were sent and when they have served and are dismissed from these walls, may they return to their homes better men, and in time may they become useful and upright citizens and honorable members of society. Amen." It is said that it would be hard to describe the scene which followed.

"WOMAN'S RIGHTS."—A writer answers the question "What are Woman's Rights?" thus:
The right to wake when others sleep;
The right to watch, the right to weep;
The right to comfort in distress,
The right to soothe, the right to bless;
The right to clothe and feed the poor;
The right to teach them to endure;
The right to dry the orphan's tear;
The right to widow's heart to cheer;
The right when other friends have flown
And left the sufferer all alone.
To kneel that dying couch beside,
And meekly point to him who died;
The right a happy home to make
In any clime for Jesus' sake; Rights such as these are all we crave Until our last—a peaceful grave.

HOLIDAYS.—In Prussia they talk of abolishing all popular holidays and restricting days of rest to Sundays alone. This is very foolish; for holidays for the working classes are most beneficial to them. In this country we have not enough seasons of relaxation from toil.
Rational social enjoyment for a few days is of great benefit to both the overworked body and mind.

ROBINS.—The Legislature of Maryland, at its late session, passed a law prohibiting the killing or trapping of robins in Anne Arundel county, under a penalty of $5 for each bird killed.
